

Guide to your first day, if you're taking lessons at Snoqualmie Summit West

When does class begin?

Classes begin at 9:30AM. If the whole class is in attendance early, then the instructors are allowed to leave early to maximize the lesson. Please try to be at your class sign between 9:00-9:15 AM on the first day of class.

Where do I go?

We have a building located on the west side of the Main buildings at Snoqualmie Summit West. It is directly above the Bunny Rope Tow. We will have class lists posted outside of the buildings stating what class number you are and who your instructors are. There will be posts up that have numbers on them which will correspond to class numbers. If you stand next to your post, your instructors will be out to meet you around 9:00AM.

Which one is my instructor?

Your instructor will have a red coat and will be out by their class numbered post by 9:00 AM to introduce themselves.

Which is my class?

There will be signs up with numbers to the east side of our building. Please stand by your corresponding numbered class sign. Your instructor and class will be congregating there also.

Should I have my equipment on?

If you have never skied before, then don't worry about having your equipment except for your ski boots. Your instructor will show you how to put your skis on. If you have skied before, then please have your equipment so your class will be ready to go as soon as everyone is there.

Where do I rent equipment?

You can call around to different ski shops to check rates on season long rentals. This will alleviate some morning stress and hassles, but the area has rentals available also.

If you are planning on renting equipment at the area, please arrive early and give yourself a lot of time. The first day of lessons will mean a lot of chaos at the rental counter because everyone is trying to rent for their first day of ski school, so it will take twice as long as you think it will. The rental shop at the area opens at 8:30AM.

Where are the bathrooms?

There are several restrooms available in all the Main lodge buildings. Please try and use those restrooms. We have one toilet available in the ski school building for emergencies.

When and where do I pick up my children?

Ski school ends at 12 noon. All instructors have been instructed to excuse children classes at the ski school building only to their parents or guardians. If you have instructed your children to meet you at the car or anywhere else other than the ski school building, then please tell the instructor ahead of time.

Do I need a lift ticket?

If this is your first time skiing, then you will not need a lift ticket until your instructor tells you, that you will.

If this is not your first day skiing, then please ask your instructor on whether you or your child will need a lift ticket. They should be calling you before the first day, to let you know this information.
